[Extracts from the Virginia papers, &c. relating to an American Episcopate. The subject continued from our last.]

Williamsburg, May 30, 1771.

Mr. RIND,
I CAN'T help felicitating my Countrymen on the near Prospect they have of seeing a Bishop amongst us, surrounded with those Dignities and Honours which must accompany that holy and venerable Office; and I hope their Joy will be the greater, as it is probable it will be filled with so distinguished a Character as the Reverend Mr.
Horrocks, the present worthy, sensible, learned, and Gentleman-like Commissary. If you have any Objections to his being our Bishop, my Countrymen, permit me only to point out to you the Advantages he was possessed of when he first set his Foot on this our western Land, and how he has since climbed to superior Honours, and they will vanish, like Fogs, before the Morning Sun:—Attend!—In one Hand he bore the birchen Sceptre, in the other a—Hat. By his indefatigable, unwearied Politeness to many Men in Power, he became President of our ancient Seat of Learning, William and Mary College.

By his—O Liberty! thou heavenly Goddess bright, Profuse of Bliss, and pregnant with Delight, to one Man in Power, he became Commissary; and by those meaning Smiles, which are forever sporting in the Muscles of his Countenance, he, with the Interest of another late noble Lord in Power, became, my Countrymen,——he became a Counsellor, and one of the Judges of the General Court!—heu Honor! heu Patria!

What's Hecuba to him, or he to Hecuba?
A LAYMAN.

To Messrs. PURDIE & DIXON.
GENTLEMEN,
June 6.
AS Doctor Chandler's Appeal to the Public may not be frequent in Virginia, the following Extracts therefrom may be serviceable to inform the Minds, and remove the Prejudices, of some, who otherwise would be fond of the Plan which the Doctor therein recommends.

"It may be proper, in a Work of this Nature, to make the following Declaration to the Public (and I appeal to every Reader who is acquainted with the Matter, for the Truth of it) that it has been long settled by our Friends and Superiours at home, and the Clergy of this Country have often signified their entire Approbation and Acquiescence therein. That the Bishops to be sent to America shall have no Authority but purely of a spiritual and ecclesiastical Nature, such as is derived altogether from the Church, and not from the State. That this Authority shall operate only upon the Clergy of the Church, and not upon the Laity, nor Dissenters of any Denomination. That the Bishops shall not interfere with the Property or Privileges, whether civil or religious, of Churchmen or Dissenters.
That in particular they shall have no Concern with the Probate of Wills, Letters of Guardianship and Administration, or Marriage Licenses, nor be Judges of any Cases relating thereto; but that they shall only exercise the original Powers of their Office, as before stated, namely, ordain and govern the Clergy, and administer Confirmation to those who shall require it."

"This, without any Reservation or Equivocation, is the exact Plan of an American Episcopate, which has been settled at home, and is the only One on which Bishops have been requested here, either in our general or more particular Adresses."

"As to Tithes, of which many Americans have had formidable Apprehensions, there could be no Reason to fear the Payment of them here, even should the Authority of our Bishops be as full and extensive as it is in England. Tithes cannot be demanded by Bishops in this Country, because there are none belonging to the Church.
They are demanded in England only because they are due to the Church. They are due to the Church there, because they have been freely given to it by the ancient Proprietors of the Lands; and the Laws relating to them do not convey them to the Church, but make them recoverable as its Property, to which it had a previous and complete Right. This Right was vested in the Church by King Ethelwulf, with the Consent of his Barons, in the Year 854. At that Time, all the Lands in England were properly the King's Domain; and he had as good a Right to dispose of them in this Manner as any Proprietor or Owner of Lands in this Country has to dispose of them to such Persons, and for such Purposes, as he thinks proper, &c."

"But it may be inquired whether new Laws will not be made, in Case of an American Episcopate, to subject us to the Payment of Tithes.
But of this there can be no more Reason to be apprehensive, then if Bishops were not to be sent hither. Tithes are not paid in England to Bishops, but to the Incumbents of Parishes; and the Clergy in this Country will have no greater Need of Tithes after the Arrival of Bishops than they now have, and have had always. In several of the Provinces on this Continent, the Clergy are regularly and well supported; and in the others, we have no Prospect but still to depend, in a great measure, upon the Charity of our Benefactors at home, until God shall either enable or dispose our Friends in this Country to do more for us. But it may farther be asked, shall we not be taxed in this Country for the Support of Bishops, if any shall be appointed? I answer, not at all. No Tax is intended; nor, I trust, will be wanted. It has been proposed, from the very Beginning, that the American Bishops should be supported without any Expense to this Country.
A Fund accordingly has been established, for this particular Purpose, for more than Half a Century past, under the Influence and Direction of the Society for Propagation of the Gospel, and many worthy Persons have contributed generously and largely to the Increase of it; and if the Stock is not sufficient for the Support of a proper Episcopate in America, I imagine the Difficulty in making it sufficient will not be great, for as many have given liberally on the remote Prospect of its being needed, it is not to be doubted but Benefactors will be raised up when Assistance shall be called for by a present Necessity."

Frontiers of Poland, July 16.

THE Confederates have formed the project of taking Cracow; and proceeding to the election of a new King. According to some advices, they are already masters of the town, and are battering the castle, wherein there is a Russian garrison. It is feared Col. During will arrive too late to succour that fortress.

Hague, July 30. His Excellency Prince Gallitzin, Envoy Extraordinary from the Empress of Russia to their High Mightinesses, hath just received the following important news, dated from Petersburgh, July 9.

"That Prince Dolgorsky, on the 25th of June, forced the lines at the entrance of the Crimea, and the garrison of Precep thereupon desiring to treat, he made answer, that he could grant them no other capitulation than that of surrendering prisoners of war; upon which condition the fortress fell into our hands the 26th of the same month, with every thing that it contained.

L O N D O N.

Aug. 1. Certain advice is received, by vessels from the Mediterranean, that several armed galli-ots, belonging to Barbary, are cruising between the islands of Sardinia and Corsica, where they commit various depredations on the ships of the Christian powers.

The Cabinet has at present two capital objects under consideration, viz. A private altercation with the Court of France, arising from one of those causes which are important only from their being made so, and the prospect of the discovery of the fire at Portsmouth.—Several consultations have been held on these subjects; the last was yesterday, another will be on Saturday. The truth is, the discussion of the affair with France, is purposely procrastinated by the council, for a very wise and obvious reason, viz. Till the Portsmouth affair is brought to an issue; when, if it shall be found that the French had any hand in the mischief, the Ministry will have them then in their power, and will be able to silence one complaint by means of another.

A correspondent informs us, that the articles in some of the papers to the following purport, are without foundation, and supposed to be calculated merely to lower the price of stocks, viz. 1. That the commander on the Jamaica station has lately sent hither for more ships, as the Spaniards shew signs of commencing hostilities. 2. That orders were sent on Tuesday to Portsmouth and Chatham to fit out several more men of war to sail with those fitting out there before, to the West Indies, it being suspected that the French have some design on those islands. 3. That the late dispute between the constables and the French Ambassador's servants cannot be settled, and in all probability will be the foundation of a war. 4. That some very unplea-sing accounts were received on Saturday night last in an express from the British Ambassador at Constantinople.

According to letters from Madrid, the greatest interest is now making at Court, to prevail upon the King of Spain to relax the severity of his late edicts against the Jesuits.

There is advice from Smyrna, that all the Greek inhabitants of the Levant are filled with the most alarming apprehensions of speedily falling victims to the unrelenting fury of the Turks, should the treaty of peace now in agitation take place between the Grand Signior and the Court of Petersburgh.

The King of Denmark, it is said, has contracted with our Merchants for seven new frigates of 36 guns each.

Aug. 3. It is said the King of Sweden is actually preparing to impede any further progress of the Russians against the Turks. This will probably involve Great Britain in this quarrel.

Aug. 5. The French Ambassador was applied to for an accommodation with respect to the dispute now depending between his and the English court, but he refused giving any answer till the return of an express to Versailles.

It is reported that a vessel, just arrived from Gibraltar, brings an account that a Russian and Spanish frigate had lately an engagement in the Mediterranean, and after an obstinate contest of five glasses, the latter was sunk.

It is confidently asserted, that the Duke of Gloucester's voyage to the Mediterranean is merely political; and that he is charged with an important commission to the court of Turin.

There are great appearances of some change in Administration before the meeting of Parliament.
It is imagined that a coalition of parties is intended.

If a coalition of parties only take place, it is much to be feared the grievances and oppressions which the people have so long laboured under, will not be effectually redressed.

It is thought that our Ministry have at length taken the hint from France and Spain, and intend to put in execution now, what ought to have been

POET'S CORNER.

AN EVENING THOUGHT.

Now down the steep of heaven the source of day Purposes, unwearied, his diurnal way; Mild shines his rays, his beams serene descend, And o'er the earth a sweet effulgence send.
The blustering winds a pleasing silence keep,
And in their caves with folded pinions sleep.
No longer from the clouds descends the rain, But a clear azure spreads th' ethereal plain.
A solemn pleasing silence hovers round,
And peace with downy wing o'er spreads the ground; While silver Cynthia sheds her milder light, And utters in the awful reign of night.
So when the lamp of life shall dimly burn,
And this frail frame to kindred dust shall turn,
May the rude strife of earth-born passions cease, And life's short journey terminate in peace;
May then no cares terrestrial break my rest, Or keen reflections discompose my breast;
May then no fear, no dread of ill to come, Make me shrink back with terror from the tomb;
But when the awful mandate from on high,
The sentence shall proclaim that bids me die, Resign'd and peaceful let me bow my head,
And to heaven soar when number'd with the dead.

To the Printer of the Morning Chronicle, SIR,

WHEN men renounce their natural freedom, and submit to the restraint and direction of a ruler, they have in view their own advantage and security. The obedience they bestow is to purchase protection; and if they find not protection, they are entitled to refuse obedience. The end of government is to secure society from the disorders which result from the passions and the crimes of individuals, not to furnish to Princes an opportunity to insult and oppress mankind with impunity. In the course, however, of time, the original conditions which bind and unite the subject and the Prince become less discernible. The pursuits of pleasure and of property occupy the mass of the people, and withhold their attention from matters of government. Princes, mean-while, succeeding each other in a regular succession, are induced to fancy, that the dominion over which they preside belongs to them of absolute right. They forget that they are no more than Magistrates, removable at the pleasure of the people; and become tyrants. It is thus perpetually, that despotic monarchies are established.

To the honour of England it may be mentioned, that the seal of the people for their natural and constitutional rights, though it has sometimes been suppressed, has never been extinguished. If they have groaned under the oppressions of tyranny, they can boast of having taught their Princes, that their conduct may reach an extremity which they will not tolerate. At a time when Lawyers and Divines were inculcating that the persons of Princes were sacred and inviolable, Charles the First was led out to execution. But the discontents of the People are never excited without a just foundation. It is not on every trivial pretence, that they are fond to complain. It is not till after repeated and daring insults that they proceed to their last resource.

The fate of Charles should have taught moderation to his successors. But power has the strongest allurements; and a weak and incapable Monarch, under the direction of infamous counsellors, may adopt measures which would fill with terror an enlightened and courageous Prince. He perceives no danger, while he is advancing to a precipice; and, secure in supine ignorance, is astonished at the fears that pervade the hearts of his subjects. Their remonstrances, though carried to his ear, leave no impression behind them. He flares with amazement at what he cannot comprehend, and continues a conduct of which he foresees not the consequences.

"That a King of England can do no wrong" is a maxim which has been sometimes contradicted by our history. At present, however we dispute not its propriety. The delicacy of modern manners may have given a sanction to this tenet. But is it also a maxim that the oppressive acts of Ministers are to pass unnoticed? Are the Representatives of the people to forget the duties which they owe to them, and politely to refrain from impeachments?

The Commons according to the original frame of the constitution, were intended as the Guardians of the rights of the nation; and since the freedom of elections has been infringed, and boroughs and counties have become objects of sale, the people are represented by the partisans of the Crown. The democratical branch of our government seems accordingly to be overthrown; and Ministers imagine they can act without control.

But in the hurry with which advances are made towards despotism, Administration should remember, that whatever undue influence may be acquired in the House of Commons, the People will not forget the "Declaration of Rights" which took place at the Revolution. By this Deed they are informed of the most effectual method by which they may procure the redress of every grievance and oppression. It marks out to them the duties which they owe as subjects, and the occasions when it is necessary that they should resist authority. As it explains the bounds beyond which prerogative cannot legally extend, and ascertains the foundations of public liberty, it is highly proper to appeal to it in every contest between the Crown and the people. While it points out to the ambitious Monarch the dangers, which attend all advances to arbitrary sway, it furnishes the subject with an antidote against tyranny. It teaches the people, that it is in their own power to secure their liberties, and to transmit them to their posterity.

GRACCHUS.

LONDON.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in India, October 23, 1770.

"On our arrival here, we found the river full of dead human carcasses, floating up and down, and the streets crowded with the dead and dying, without any one attempting to give them relief; so horribly has the famine raged here that they who were able to walk and procure food for themselves, were so accustomed to see their fellow creatures perishing before them that it did not even create a painful emotion. The numbers that have perished in Calcutta only, amounted (while they found it possible to keep and account) to 20 or 21,000 a week; but afterwards they became so numerous, that they were every morning just gathered together in a heap, and thrown into the river without any possibility of numbering them. I have myself passed by and seen 20 or 30 lain down to die in the length of one street. I have beheld the hapless infant tugging at the empty breast of its mother just expiring, without being capable of affording them the smallest aid. The dying mothers have frequently been delivered of the fruit of their wombs in the streets, and both have immediately been swept up amongst the dead. It was no uncommon sight to see dogs running about with human limbs in their jaws, and I am told that many of the expiring wretches were seen gorging on the bodies of those who perished within their reach.—The third part of this once populous country, is at the smallest computation cut off.—The famine is now at an end, though the effects of it are too visible. Those who have withstood the calamity (many of them) are not able to procure food for themselves, and are so numerous, that charity, of which much has been extended, cannot relieve them all. There are many therefore still dying daily in our fight. The French of the mortality has made the last sickly season very fatal to the Europeans, but that occasions no complaints, as it makes room for some of the others who were waiting to succeed them and are very numerous in proportion to the business."

Extract of a letter from Wilsch, July 25.

"Yesterday came on at Cambridge affizes, before Sir William De Grey, Knt. Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, the trial of a Merchant, Grocer, and Cordwainer of this town, for wilful and corrupt perjury; which lasted six hours and thirteen minutes, when the jury brought him in guilty; and he is to receive sentence the first day of next term."

It was the most remarkable trial that has happened in this country in the memory of man, and the most complicated scenes of villany ever heard of brought to light. He has been an old offender in such horrid practices, and much mischief has been done by him; however, by this conviction he is become infamous, and it is not doubted but he will meet with the fate he deserves."

Extract of a letter from a Lady at Southampton,

July 29

"I was yesterday looking out of my window upon the beach where the people bathe, and saw a most affecting accident. A little child was going to be dipped; and the fond mother was so terrified, that she would not trust it to the guide, but would dip the child herself; and between her fright and the child's struggling, it slipped out of her arms, and was drowned. I hear it was an only child; the unhappy lady was almost distracted at the loss."

The principal wounds Miss Gough received from the lawyer in Gloucestershire, were on the top, back part, and side of her head, from which her face and one eye have been very much swelled. Her hat was almost cut to pieces and her wrists much bruised in defending herself from the ruffian. The death of her amiable friend, after whom she often enquires, has not yet been made known to her.

The murderer, when first brought to Gloucester castle, was not only loaded with the heaviest irons on his legs, but had a collar of iron round his neck, from which a heavy chain going down his back, and between his legs, was fastened to his hand bolts; however, it appearing that he could not live under the weight of his fetters the collar has been taken off.

Bristol, July 27. Accounts have been received in this City, that Miss Gough, one of the young Ladies who was so barbarously treated on Thursday Se'nnight near Lidney, is better, and that there are some hopes of her Recovery.

MADE AND SOLD, By GEORGE TRAILL,

At the Snuff-Mills in the Bowery-Lane;

BEST Scots snuff, rappee of all kinds, and Irish high tacked, equal to any imported from Europe, choice pigtail, hogtail, and cut tobacco, manufactured in the best manner.

As it is manifest that America is not necessarily obliged to import these articles from any other country, it would be needless to say any thing on that subject. He however begs leave to point out to the public, the advantages which would evidently result to the Colonies from this branch of business, was it to meet proper encouragement.

There are computed to be three millions of people in British America. Suppose one in ten of those, or three hundred thousand to snuff, that article cannot cost them less (one with another) than twenty shillings a year, which amounts to three hundred thousand pounds, from that deduct 20 per cent. for the importers profits, there will remain two hundred and ninety four thousand pounds, to be remitted yearly from this country never to return.

Query. Would it not be better to save such an immense sum to the colonies, than to put sixty thousand pounds in the pockets of a few individuals by making that remittance?

The above manufactures to be retailed by James Hounam, in New Dutch-Street, near Mr. Livingston's sugar-house. 29 4

THE Public are informed, that as Mr. Barber has declined his School; the Subscriber being liberally educated in New-Jersey College, is unanimously chosen to succeed him in the Care of the Youth.—The same approved Method of Education will be continued, which hath heretofore been practised in this School.

Boys will be fitted for College in the most accurate and expeditious manner, by The Public's most obedient, And very humble Servant, JOHN WRIGHT.

N. B. All the Branches of an English Education will also be taught with the utmost Care and Attention. 99 2
